Dear Marcy,

We did it and it's all because of you!!!! Thank you! Thank you! Thank you! Yes, it's been confirmed--we received enough votes to move on to round two in the Best Brilliant Idea for Humanity contest.

The contest organizers have now made it easier for all of us as well. What this means is no voting in round two--instead, we have to submit a business plan by mid December and a panel will determine who will move on to the next round. We'll keep you informed about our status in the process and send you any additional information as soon as it's available.

In the meantime, thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

The Inspired Learning Model in India

As mentioned in our previous newsletter, Peter J. Reding facilitated a one-day workshop in Delhi, India on September 11, 2010, the purpose of which was to introduce the Inspired Learning Model to thirty-two educators from various schools. Peter has now completed 4 follow-up webinars for those who attended the workshop as well as some of their colleagues. There is much interest in the Inspired Learning Model in India and Peter is planning another trip to Delhi and Mumbai early in the new year.

The Inspired Learning Model and Adult Literacy

As a follow-up to the Inspired Learning Model enhanced training developed specifically for Adult Literacy Tutors in the California State Library System, a project has been initiated to videotape active listening exercises and a visualization process. In addition to the tapes, Library literacy programs will be able to access training material/outlines that include Inspired Learning Model principles.

We need your help with Facebook

We want to create content for four specific areas and need your help. If you're interested in creating content regarding your experience with the Inspired Learning Model for parents, teachers, adult learning facilitators and/or educational leaders/policy makers, please contact Marcy at marcyjohnsrude@inspiredlearning.org. Click Facebook Link Here: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Inspired-Learning-Model/146819222013841?ref=ts>

Also, if you have the technical ability and the time to be involved in development of the new Facebook pages, please let us know.

Free Training & Access to WebEx Webinar

Are you interested in being trained on WebEx webinar technology. We will be offering free access to our 100 seat webinar room to those who are willing to share how you use the Inspired Learning Model as a parent, teacher, adult learning facilitator, or educational leader/policy maker--your presentation can be as short as 5 minutes. Contact Anne Kelly to discuss at anewleafcoaching@earthlink.net

Achieve amazing results by being Certified as an Inspired Learning Facilitator: As a result of recent interest in the Certification Program, we are happy to offer you two opportunities to become certified beginning in January, 2011. We will be hosting two programs a week, basically, beginning January 10th and alternatively, January 13th. You should have already received an e-mail regarding the choice of dates--if not, or if you want more information, please contact marcyjohnsrude@inspiredlearning.org. To provide a deepened learning experience for all our learners, we limit the number of participants in our programs, and some seats are already spoken for; therefore, to ensure a seat in one of our two January offerings, please go to http://www.inspiredlearning.org/register_certification.php as soon as you can. The cost of the Program is $1299 US--we are happy to arrange a payment plan for you--just feel free to ask. We look forward to hearing from you.
